

Fernando Casal Bértoa

is a Nottingham Research Fellow at the School of Politics and International Relations in the University of Nottingham (United Kingdom). He is also Co-chair of the Council for European Studies' Research Network on "Political Parties, Party Systems and Elections" as well as Research theme director at the Nottingham Interdisciplinary Centre for Economic and Political Research. His work has been published in Sociological Methods and Research, Party Politics, Democratization, Government and Opposition, International Political Science Review, South European Society and Politics, or East European Politics. His most recent book (co-edited) is Party Politics and Democracy in Europe: Essays in Honour of Peter Mair (Routledge, 2015).